Located at the confluence of the Kharkai and Subarnarekha Rivers, Jamshedpur is perched on the Chhota Nagpur plateau and is surrounded by deciduous forests and fed by numerous lakes. The Dalma Wildlife Sanctuary, home to the Asiatic Elephant, lies on the outskirts of the city and the spectacular Dasam Falls are a short drive away.

DALMA WILDLIFE SANCTUARY

Established in 1975, The Dalma Wildlife Sanctuary is just 10 km from the city of Jamshedpur and unfolds against the backdrop of the Dalma Hills. It spans 195 km<sup>2</sup>, extending from Chandil to the east, and has a significant population of Indian Elephants. As the NH-18 winds alongside, the sanctuary's hills rise to heights of up to 915 m above sea level, offering panoramic views. Encompassing forests of East Singhbhum and Saraikela-kharsawan districts, its diverse flora includes Dry Peninsular Sal and Northern Dry Mixed Deciduous. While summer prompts the shedding of leaves, it is during the monsoon that the sanctuary comes alive.

DASSAM FALLS

Located approximately 45 km from Ranchi, en route to Jamshedpur, a motorable road branches off from NH33, leading to Taimara village. Here, the untamed Kanchi River, a tributary of the Swarnarekha, cascades from a height of 144 feet, known as Da-Song during the British Raj. The falls, at their most glorious between October and January, are accessible by car or private vehicle and are an adventure awaiting tourists.
